

Contributors

Esmond Birnie (PhD, Queen’s University Belfast) is senior economist in the Ulster University Business School, Belfast, UK. A member of the Northern Ireland Fiscal Council and formerly PwC Chief Economist in Northern Ireland and Scotland.

Anne Rathbone Bradley (PhD, George Mason University) is vice president of Academic Affairs at the Fund for American Studies, Washington, DC. She is a professor of economics at the Institute of World Politics and an affiliate scholar at the Acton Institute.

Michael Thomas D’Emic (PhD, University College, Cork of the National University of Ireland; MLitt, MBA, Trinity College, Dublin) is an Industry Associate Professor at the New York University Tandon School of Engineering in the Department of Technology Management and Innovation.

Mary Hirschfeld (PhD, Harvard University; PhD, University of Notre Dame) is associate professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame, with an affiliation in the Business Ethics and Society Program. Her book integrating economics and the thought of St. Thomas Aquinas, Aquinas and the Market (Harvard University Press, 2018) won the International Society and Economics Prize and the Aldersgate Prize. It has been translated into French, Lithuanian, and Portuguese.

Adam T. Jones (PhD, University of Georgia) is a professor of economics and department chair at the University of North Carolina Wilmington.

Hannah Mead Kling (PhD, George Mason University) is assistant professor of Economics & Data Science at Belmont Abbey College.

Jibril Latif (PhD, University of Birmingham) is assistant professor of Communications, Humanities, and Social Sciences at Gulf University for Science and Technology in Kuwait.

Contributors

Steven McMullen (PhD, University of North Carolina) is an associate professor of economics at Hope College and editor of the journal Faith & Economics.

Akhtar Ismail Mohammed (LLM, Osgoode Hall Law School) is a New York-qualified attorney and author of Islamonomics: Islamic Finance, Trade, and the Global Muslim Market. His book was nominated for the British Academy Book Prize of Global Cultural Understanding (2021).

Julia Norgaard (PhD, George Mason University) is an assistant professor of economics at Pepperdine University.

Omar Qureshi (PhD, Loyola University, Chicago) is the provost and assistant professor of Liberal Arts and Islamic Studies at Zaytuna College. His thesis, entitled “Badr al-Dīn Ibn Jamā‘ah and the Highest Good of Islamic Education,” treats the topic of educational institutional identity in the United States.

Orlando Samões (PhD, IEP – Universidade Católica Portuguesa) is associate professor of the Great Books Curriculum as well as of Public Choice in the course “Decision Theory.” He has been teaching the courses “Political Science” and “Contemporary Political Thought” as guest professor at Católica School of Business and Economics, Lisbon. He serves as Senior Tutor for the BA Programme in Political Science and International Relations at the Institute for Political Studies of Universidade Católica Portuguesa (IEP-UCP) and as the editor-in-chief of Nova Cidadania quarterly journal. His thesis on Adam Smith won the Novak Award 2021 by the Acton Institute.

Daniel Soques (PhD, University of North Carolina) is an associate professor of economics at the University of North Carolina Wilmington.

Joel R. Tillotson III (BSBA, University of North Carolina Wilmington) is a vice president at Live Oak Bank in Wilmington, NC.

Brent Waters (DPhil, University of Oxford) is the Emeritus Stead Professor of Christian Social Ethics, and Emeritus Director, Stead Center for Ethics and Values at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary.

Ethan Watson (PhD, University of Mississippi) is an associate professor of finance at the University of North Carolina Wilmington.

Nikolai Wenzel (PhD, George Mason University) is Distinguished Professor of Economics at Fayetteville State University.